With such endowments they would be placed within reach of all. The view so generally maintained by the medical profession, that ten should be the minimum age for entering our public schools, if carried into effect, would lead to radical improvements in the management of children. In our public schools about two-thirds of the whole number are in the primary grades, the great majority of whom never go on beyond these grades, and are entirely dependent on the public schools for whatever education they do receive. While the major portion of those who continue in the grammar and higher grades are precisely those who are well enough off to obtain an education, were there no public schools. Now from this statement it is obvious that the State should expend its strength in perfecting the primary grades. It is equally obvious that...
