From the authors introductory: Bones for Shakespeares Depreciators to Pick: THE name of Shakespeare is the greatest in our literature it is the greatest in all literature not Homers self such matchless laurels won! Sweetest Shakespeare is the Poet of the World; the mighty master of the Soul! His anatomy of the human heart is delineated from Nature not from Metaphysics. If human-nature were quite destroyed, and no monument left of it except his Works, other Beings might learn what Man was, from those writings. Our inimitable Shakespeare, the Genius of our Isle, the man whom Nature self had made, to mock herself, was not of an Age, but, for all Time; the chief of Poets hitherto: what draughts of nature! what a variety of originals! everything in him is in unmeasured abundance and unequaled perfection fresh to all ages! the consummate union of the beautiful and the good the photographic transmission of the created world, both animate and inanimate. Pride of his own, and wonder of this Age, Shakespeare unlocked mans heart; disdained to sacrifice justice and the truth of nature, to any time-serving expediency; the teacher of all good: there never was a Poet who had such sublime beauties, so great a variety of beauties, or so great a number of beauties, as Shakespeare; reade him, therefore, and againe and againe; and if then yon doe not like him, surely you are in some manifest danger not to understand him. His Dramas are not only moral, but religious, in the highest meaning of that word; affording evidence of his mind having been deeply imbued with the pure morality of the Gospel: he never renders that amiable...
