Reviews

A brand new electronic book with a new standpoint. It is written in basic phrases rather than confusing. It has been designed in an extremely basic way which is merely right after I finished reading through this publication where basically altered me, change the way I believe.

Not illustrated. 1910 Excerpt: .to be that in the past when there are often a sufficient number of supervisors provided for an examination room, there is little or no vigilance exercised for the first ten or fifteen minutes of the examination. In this time, those men prepared with cribs have ample time to compare the paper with such notes. The use of sealing lists is another suggestion which student discussions have brought out. lly this method those men who are most liable to cheat can be seated in the most advantageous places for surveillance by the supervisors. The chief argument for this system seems to be that only those who intend to cheat, or who cheat regularly, could object to this plan. And, on the other hand, the honest men would court such an arrangement; for. if they happened to be assigned to a conspicuous seat, they would be just that much more certain of being let alone by the cheaters during the examination. In short, to the honest man it is of little importance how much he is watched, and to the dishonest man it is of the greatest importance. It is not difficult to notice with w hat keen generalship the majority of cheaters choose their seats in order to be in the most advantageous positions as far as they are concerned. The man who does not cheat, it will also be noticed, will choose the most conspicuous place in order not to be bothered by the whispered...
